Site History

The Double Mills Grist Mill www.doublemills.org is located on the Barren Creek. The current structure dates from the 1870's with an addition completed in 1935. Restoration began in 2007 and is now in the second phase: replacement of the foundation and roof. The mill building has been lifted off its foundation since August 2008, while raising necessary funds to pour a new cement foundation. The raceway, damaged in a 1979 storm, will be replaced in a future phase. The mill has its original equipment and its turbine, which has been buried in mud for 32 years. (See also SPOOM-MA April 2012 Newsletter.)

Planned Activities

Thursday August 16 – Pre-Meeting Meet and Greet Picnic Dinner at the Adkins Historical Complex in Mardela Springs with live music and a tour of the museum and historical buildings within the Complex planned. Arrive anytime after 5 p.m. Dinner is at 6 p.m. (No fee; preregistration requested)

The Minutes of the meeting are posted on the Chapter web-site: www.spoommidatlantic.org. Highlights of the meeting included the appointment of Marlene Lufriu to chair and organize the Nominating Committee for the election of officers for the 2013-2014 term. The slate of nominees appears below and on the web-site. The slate will be presented to our membership at the August 18, 2012 meeting at the Double Mills, see the web-site for the full program and procedures for registration.

The SPOOM Mid-Atlantic/Friends of Colvin Run Mill/NVCC Map Project was described in an article in the Spring 2012 issue of Old Mill News. The report featured the York County PA arrangements with Northern Virginia Community College (NVCC) to insert the mill data from York County. We hope other regions in the Mid-Atlantic region can find a way to participate.

The software for the on-line interactive mill mapping system is being developed by NVCC and will be demonstrated at future SPOOM national meetings. Ownership of the system is currently in the hands of the Friends of Colvin Run Mill. This is a starting point for ownership. Our plan is to install the interactive system on www.spoommidatlantic.org and make its maintenance available to all Organization members of the Chapter. This will be a test of the SPOOM system maintenance structure. Long term, we envision ownership and maintenance to pass to the SPOOM national organization.

I want to thank the Double Mills, www.doublemills.org, for hosting our Chapter meeting on August 18, 2012. An exciting program has been arranged, go to www.spoommidatlantic.org for the details. I look forward to seeing you all there.

Greetings!
The Stover-Myers Mill and the Bucks County Department of Parks and Recreation invite all SPOOM’ers and other friends of milling to join in celebrating the Society for the Preservation of Old Mills 40th Anniversary by attending the 2012 SPOOM Annual Conference, based in Bucks County, PA.

The conference planners have arranged a full program to ensure a memorable experience. Pre-tour events, a two day mill tour, picnic, banquet, bookstore, vendors, photo contest and 40th anniversary activities will be provided as will be the opportunity to catch up and relax with old friends. For those who can come early, or leave latter, Bucks County and its environs offer visitors an incredible number of historic sites, unique shopping venues, antiques and art, great restaurants, and miles and miles of serene country drives on country roads and along waterways.

Eight exceptional mills will highlight the tour schedule.
All but Stover Mill will be in operation.

- The Mill at Anselma, Chester Springs, PA - 1747
- Bowmansville Mill and Sawmill, Bowmansville, PA - 1850
- Evans-Mumbauer Mill, North Wales, PA - 1800
- Cooper Mill, Chester, NJ - 1826
- Ralston Cider Mill, Mendham, NJ - 1848
- Stover Mill, Erwinna, PA - 1832
- Stover-Myers Mill, Pipersville, PA – 1800

PRE-TOUR EVENTS – THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER, 27, 2012
A DAY AT PENNSBURY MANOR – William Penn’s reconstructed 17th century home.
• Beer Brewing – a hands-on demonstration of how beer was made with locally grown grains in the late 17th century.
• Open Hearth Baking – bake 17th century flat breads on an open hearth using flour products from your mills.
• Oxen Plowing – watch Bill & Red, the oxen, plow a field and then help “broadcast” seed for a winter crop of grain.
• 17th Century Mills & Milling – presented by Steven Gimber, Assistant Professor of History, West Chester University.
Tour of the Manor, lunch and transportation included. Limited to 30 participants.

40 YEARS OF SPOOMING!
2012 ANNUAL CONFERENCE AND MILL TOUR (cont’d)

A DAY AT NEWLIN MILL – Archival Workshop &Tour
This workshop will teach you how to care for, organize and use your mill’s (and your own!) collection of documents, photographs, books, journals, letters and other correspondence. It will help you in developing a collection policy, accessioning records, arranging and describing your collection, and getting the materials and supplies needed. A special treat offered will be the opportunity to familiarize yourself with the vast SPOOM collection of artifacts, publications, photographs and the like now housed at Newlin Mill as the official repository of SPOOM’s archives. See what your fellow SPOOMERS have donated over the years, and take advantage of this chance to engage in some research for your immediate or future needs. Included in the day’s activity is plenty of time to experience this operating 1700’s mill and to explore the 500 acre park and historic grounds.
Lunch and transportation included. Limited to 30 participants.

COVERED BRIDGES (AND SOME MILLS) OF BUCKS COUNTY
Enjoy a leisurely day investigating most (and maybe all) of Bucks County’s 12 historic covered bridges and viewing some nearby mills. Examples of early timber framing and truss engineering similar to that used in mill construction will be viewed inside, around and underneath these structures built between 1832 and 1882. Located in picturesque settings, some are adjacent to or near mills that you can photograph exteriorly and add to your personal mill lists.
Lunch and transportation included. Limited to 30 participants.

MUSEUMS OF DOYLESTOWN & CASTLE VALLEY MILL
• MERCER MUSEUM - 50,000 pre-industrial “tools that built the nation” collected by Henry Mercer are exhibited in his concrete multi-storied museum built in 1912-1916. A complete “Norse Mill” and many other mill-related items, including a sash (“up and down”) sawmill, can be viewed. A National Historic Landmark.

• FONTHILL CASTLE - Mercer’s 28-room home built of hand-mixed reinforced concrete in 1908-1910 contains tiles and other artifacts collected by him during his years as an archeologist. The interior architecture is as unique as the exterior. A National Historic Landmark.

40 YEARS OF SPOOMING!
2012 ANNUAL CONFERENCE AND MILL TOUR (cont’d)

• MORAVIAN POTTERY & TILE WORKS - Built by Mercer in 1911-1912 entirely of hand-mixed reinforced concrete, the site was his factory for producing Arts and Crafts Era handmade decorative tiles and mosaics. It is now a working history museum still producing his tile designs. A National Historic Landmark.

• CASTLE VALLEY MILL - This circa 1800 gristmill is commercially producing a variety of stone-ground products utilizing restored and adapted milling equipment, within Mark and Frances Fisher’s goal to totally restore the mill once owned by Mark’s grandfather. Lots of interesting equipment!

Transportation included. Lunch on your own in Doylestown. Limited to 30 participants.

HOTEL INFORMATION
Crowne Plaza, 4700 Street Road, Trevose, PA 19053  Phone: 215-364-2000

A year after sending an inquiry to the Geography Department at Penn State I received a reply that an undergraduate student was looking for a senior project and would like to tackle the Centre County Mill Map Project. A meeting with the Centre County Historical Society produced a plan and the project was on the way. Richard Fourroux, a senior in Geography at Penn State, took a scanned image of a map of Centre County from 1861 and cleaned up the roads and other infrastructure to produce the base map. The information about the mills from that era was overlaid on the base map. The Centre County Historical Society is working on finding historical photos and other information to add to the image to produce a poster sized map for display purposes. The map will also be the basis for other display options that have not yet been identified.

Anyone wishing to share information or historic photographs, please contact Robert McLaughlin at: rlm101@verizon.net

The Azores is an archipelago of nine islands which is an Autonomous Region of Portugal. Four distinctive styles of windmills are found on the islands, distinguished by region and not by use.

This “Dutch” style windmill sometimes has a conical versus domed rotating roof and has 4 cloth-covered sails. The wooden semi-ovoid tower sits on a stone base. It is most common on the islands of San Miguel, Santa Maria and Graciosa.

On the islands of Faial and Pico, mills have a truncated cone-shaped stone base with a rotating wooden tower and central staircase that acts as a stabilizing “tail.” There is a central mast projecting outward to which 8 poles are wired so as to support triangular sails.
Mills on São Jorge are of two types, the earlier had 4 triangular sails without supporting latticework, but now most are narrow vertical mills on stone bases with rotors of 2 or 4 blades.

The Corvo Island design is a squat stone tower on a low stone base with the mast and 8 poles style as used on Pico and Faial. The double staircase from the base is also distinctive to this design. These mills are usually whitewashed.

On Graciosa, several styles of mills are visible. Some are being restored. The one here, restored all in stone, contains 2 apartments available for summer rental or weekends, see http://www.casasacorianas.com/azores/houses/moinho-da-pedra

The 14 Canary Islands are part of Spain and lie 100 km (62 mi) off the coast of West Africa. Mills are almost all in the “Dutch” style although there are some mast-and-pole examples. The one exception is the style North Americans associate with pumping water on farms, the multi-bladed metal wheel style. In the Canaries, this type is used almost exclusively to pump seawater for desalination.
Tide Mills of Western Europe
-- Cláudia Silveira

The exhibition "Tide Mills of Western Europe" is aimed at helping to increase public awareness of these heritage buildings common to the European Atlantic Coast and the ways in which their potential has been developed. Organised as part of a project supported by the European Commission under the Culture 2000 Program and coordinated by the Ecomuseu Municipal do Seixal (Portugal), the exhibition is the result of the collective work of more than 20 institutions and researchers dedicated to projects related to the research, preservation, restoration and promotion of tide mills on European territory. This exhibition is in circulation around Europe since October 2005 when it was first presented at the Prat Tide Mill (La Vicomtè-sur-Rance, Côtes d'Armor, France) and has received since then almost 100 000 visitors.

This summer, “Tide Mills of Western Europe” returns for new presentations in England which includes venues at the Eling Tide Mill, Hampshire (until July 13), The House Mill in London located near the main Olympic Stadium (during the Olympics, from July 25 to August 26), Woodbridge Tide Mill, Suffolk (from July 27 to September 9) and Ashlett Tide Mill, Hampshire (from September 10 onward).

A second exhibition set is visiting The Netherlands for the first time. The Westbrabantse Mills Society and the city of Bergen op Zoom host the exhibition which is on display at the renovated Tide Mill in Bergen op Zoom until September 9, where additional information about tide mills in the Schelde Delta has been included. On September 1, 2012, a one-day seminar will be held at the Old City hall (Oude Stadhuis) at Bergen op Zoom on the topic of tide mills. For more information you can contact Peet Quintus of the Westbrabantse Mills Society (peet@peetspalette.nl or www.westbrabantsemolens.nl).

The exhibition is still available for those institutions that might be interested in presenting it. More information is available at the website http://www.cm-seixal.pt/moinhosdemare/.
