Mid-Atlantic Chapter Summer 2016 Newsletter

By Bob McLaughlin

We returned to Westmoreland County, PA for our spring meeting. The turn out was light, with only about 15, but we had a very pleasant tour of the Laurel Highlands of PA. It would help us in planning future meetings to know why people did not attend.

Our Group Exemption letter to the IRS was rejected. The IRS reasoning is that since some chapters have never filed the required paperwork the IRS feels SPOOM does not have enough control over the chapters to warrant a group exemption. It appears that this is the end of this process. We will need to discuss our next steps as well as our gift to SPOOM.

Officers will be elected at the fall meeting. The slate of nominees consists of Dan Campbell, president; Adam Sieminski, vice-president; and Judy Grove, Secretary/Treasurer. We will vote on these at the fall meeting.

I attended the SPOOM conference in California and presented our proposal to fund the project to clean out the Spring-house drain at the Mill at Anselma here in the Mid-Atlantic region. I am waiting to hear from SPOOM that the project is completed as proposed so we can issue the funds.

Mid Atlantic SPOOM has volunteered to host the 2017 SPOOM national conference as a joint meeting with the chapter. The folks at Aberdeen Mills have volunteered to be the host site. They are located in Dauphin County, PA near Harrisburg and were the site of our fall meeting in 2010. A committee is being formed to plan the activities. It includes Bob McLaughlin, Dan Campbell, Judy Grove and Megan Orient. If you would like to work on the committee or have any suggestions, feel free to share them with the committee.

Action items from the newsletter:

Mid-Atlantic Chapter April 2016 Meeting

Dan Campbell

The Mid Atlantic Chapter met from April 14 to 16 for our spring 2016 meeting in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, in a scenic, natural area of western Pennsylvania, known as the “Laurel Highlands”. The host mill was operated by St. Vincent's Archabbey and College, a Benedictine educational institution founded in 1846, now occupying 200 acres, in Latrobe, PA. We began with a meet and greet dinner for about a dozen members and guests at a popular café. We were particularly honored to be joined by local restoration contractor Robert Rightgen, plus his crew and client, who were coincidentally in the midst of relocating a former mill structure to rehabilitate into a home in the nearby hills.

Friday, April 15, we departed on a cozy tour bus led by Stacey Magda of the Laurel Highlands Visitors Bureau. Our tour traced the historic road which has traversed southern Pennsylvania from east to west since the Philadelphia to Pittsburgh Turnpike was completed in 1817. Our first stop was the Compass Inn Museum, an authentically restored stagecoach stop listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The first log-built section of the inn was built in 1799 and was used primarily by wagoners and drovers, who transported materials and drove animals to markets. By 1820 the building was expanded by the Armor family to include rooms for increasing business and more prosperous guests.

The stagecoach stop operated from 1820 until 1862 by which time the railroads and canals were well-established, and stagecoach travel reduced. It remained in the Armor family for seven generations until 1966 when it was acquired by the Ligonier Valley Historical Society who restored it to its 1820 condition. The site includes the inn, and also a blacksmith shop, summer kitchen, wagon barn and other outbuildings necessary for the operation of the stagecoach stop.

www.compassinn.com In the early 20th century, this road developed into the famous Lincoln Highway connecting Pennsylvania and Ohio.

As we continued east, a quick mid-morning stop at The Pie Shoppe provided us with a tasty sweet treat and coffee boost, as we traveled along the scenic Loyalhanna Creek, coincidentally on opening weekend of the trout fishing season (a local attraction for out-of-town anglers). We slipped through more small towns and past historic Fort Ligonier where George Washington began his career during the French and Indian Wars around the 1750's.

The Green Gables Banquet Hall – Dan Campbell

We were rewarded with lunch at our next stop - the Green Gables Restaurant and Mountain Playhouse. The Green Gables began as a roadside sandwich stand in 1927 by a young farmer Jimmie Stoughton, an entrepreneur, with an artistic flair. In the 1930's the restaurant was expanded, and as the Great Depression gave way to increasing prosperity, Stoughton decided to add a summer theater to further attract customers. He discovered an unused 1805 log grist-mill, and by 1939 relocated it, log-by-log, to his site and converted it into a theater, later adding an adjoining art gallery.

Since then, the re-purposed mill, known as the Mountain Playhouse has presented over six decades of professional theater entertainment. In the later 20th century, a large banquet hall was built of heavy timbers with massive oak tree trunks as 4 structural posts. The banquet hall was born from the imagination of Stoughton and his architect Teresa Mullane, who later became his wife. Their daughter Teresa Stoughton Marafino led us on the fascinating tour of this unique combination theater, artistic and dining venue, just off of the Lincoln Highway. www.greengablespa.com

From there we traveled to the Somerset County Historical Center, which is managed jointly by the PA Historical and Museum Commission and the Historical and Genealogical Society of Somerset County. This large outdoor museum is dedicated to education about rural life in southwestern Pennsylvania, from pre-history to the present. It contains a variety of structures on a rolling hillside and nearby woods, some of the buildings are historical and others are recreated. We toured a log cabin, a timber and stone farmhouse, a stone and log barn, a large log cider press (and model of it) and a covered bridge, as well as the modern visitors' center. www.somersethistoricalcenter.org

Rockwood Mill Shoppes and Opera House (Rockwood, PA), a project of proprietors Judy Pletcher (the brains) and her husband Terry (both of them the brawn). Judy originally wanted a venue for a Women's Fitness center, and then fell-in-love with, and purchased the 3 story brick and timber mill building. It is conveniently located along the Great Allegheny Passage, a bicycling trail on a previous rail line from Pittsburgh, PA to Cumberland, MD.

As the project evolved, they discovered the huge second floor opera / theater space complete with stage, and returned that area to its former use, while adding modern amenities. They removed layers of grime and restored the extensive chestnut woodwork throughout the building. The commercial area on the first floor includes a gift shop and food venue; the former mill areas in back and upstairs contain antique and craft-sellers' stalls, (some of them in the former grain-bins) and even a coal museum! The adaptive re-use of the mill became an economic-driver for the small town of Rockwood, and a destination for travelers along the Allegheny Passage Trail. www.rockwoodmillshoppes.com

Saturday's activities were focused around the flour gristmill on the campus of Saint Vincent College. Shortly after the school and monastery's inception as a self-sustaining institution, the gristmill was built in 1854 to provide flour to their bakery, for bread to feed the monks and students, and to sell for profit. Because of the coal deposits in the area (the college is built over numerous coal seams), the mill has had no water-power, but was initially powered by coal-fired steam engines (later electric). Although a fire destroyed the college's bakery in the mid-20th century, the gristmill continues to produce flour for sale (available today). After an excellent informative video about the mill history and operation we were treated to a tour through the original structure, and subsequent additions from the 1870's and 1890's, each with their evolving heavy-timber construction techniques, but in a unified building design. We were lead by Father Paul, the long-time miller, and Brothers Matthew (the current miller) and Andre from Brazil, in their black robes (a bit incongruous in a flour-mill!), where they showed us several floors of past and currently-working equipment. They said that if we visited at night, we might have an encounter with their resident ghost of brother Majolus, who legend has it, was killed in the mill when his robe was caught in equipment. Then they confessed that they actually wear jeans and shirts when the equipment is running and they are working in the mill. www.saintvincent.edu

After the mill tour, we went to the Fred Rogers Center meeting room on campus (he was from Pittsburgh) to see an interactive display of his history, and a special quilt exhibit in their art gallery. There we conducted our semi-annual business meeting, over lunch. The 2 ½ day event was a great overview of the beauty and history of the Laurel Highlands of PA, and we were able to tour a working mill, as well as to see some fine, old mill structures being re-used in adaptive ways.

Castle Valley Mill —Located in nearby Bucks County, originally constructed in 1730 and restored in 1947 by the current owner’s grandfather, who saved many milling machines and examples of technology and ingenuity when older mills in Bucks County were being torn down or gutted. From this collection, Castle Valley Mill has restored several antique mill stones and processing machines and put them back into operation. Using antique burh stones, the mill continues to produce the finest ground flours, meals, cleaned whole berry grains and grain mixes, which are sold to leading restaurants in Philadelphia, New York City and elsewhere. No products are sold at the Mill (1½ hours).

The Market at DeVal—originally run by the students of Delaware Valley College, which began life as an agricultural school and in 2014 became a University, the Market has a deli, a creamery, plants, fresh farm produce and the grains/flours produced by Castle Valley Mill, as well as clean, modern restrooms. Semiannual Meeting

President Bob McLaughlin opened the business meeting at 11:40 am. During the meeting, Rev. Paul Taylor, Br Andre Milli and Br Matthew Hershey were thanked for hosting the mill tour and meeting. Charles Yeske, SPOOM President, sent greetings and regrets that he could not attend. Minutes of the August 2015 meeting at Jerusalem Mills MD were approved as distributed. The balance in the treasury is $10,994.17. See Attachment B for a detailed report. The 2015 account audit was completed by Craig Sansonetti and accounts are in order. The final 2015 finance report was distributed to members and is also posted on our website.

Membership: As of April 15, paid 2016 memberships include 42 chapter/SPOOM ($10), 4 non-SPOOM members ($15), 19 sustaining memberships ($25), and 13 organizational memberships ($50) for a membership total of 78. Durham Historical Society is a new organizational member this year.

Website: There are 300 subscribers to the www.spoommidatlantic.org website. Beth de Francis reported that three articles are prepared for the launch of the blog feature on our website. Members will be notified once final issues are resolved with the launch. The suggestion to add a message requesting viewers to report inappropriate comments was made. Adam Sieminski moved and Terry Koller seconded a motion to add a disclaimer to website alerts and notices regarding auctions and sales of mills and equipment. Motion carried. Also, according to SPOOM bylaws, the chapter should not place a value on items for sale.

Project Report: Dan Campbell presented the report prepared by Ivan Lufriu. See attachment C. A motion by Linda Koons, seconded by Megan Orient to provide print copies of project reports passed. This will enable more efficient reporting of this important service provided by the chapter and allow time for clarification to the membership as needed during the Project Report time.

Old Business

SPOOM Chapter Group Exemption Status: The IRS notified SPOOM that the request to add chapters under their 501(c)(3) tax exempt status was refused, but the formal explanation has not been sent. Once this is received, the chapter will determine their next step.

Mill Mapping Project: Progress continues with over 4100 mills listed. Bob McLaughlin prepared a map of Westmoreland County Mills to present to our hosts at St Vincent.

Nittany Antique Machinery Association (NAMA) in Centre Hall: Bob McLaughlin reported that their mill building is complete and windows installed. The next public show is June 6th, 2016.

Chapter Donation for SPOOM Grant: Upon completion of the draining of the spring at the Mill at Anselma, the chapter will pay the grant amount of $575.

New Business

Preauthorization for Chapter Purchases: On a motion by Adam Sieminski and second by Linda Koons, the SPOOM Mid-Atlantic Board was authorized to make necessary purchases up to $100 without requiring board approval.

2016 Fall Chapter Meeting: Bill and Linda Koons reported that plans are to tour four mills in the Philadelphia area on Friday, September 9 and then hold the meeting and tour Springfield Mills at Morris Arboretum on Saturday, September 10. The event will also be open to the public as an Arboretum course.

2017 Chapter Election: Elections for officers will be held at the fall meeting. Nominees are Dan Campbell for president, Adam Sieminski for vice president and Judy Grove for secretary-treasurer. These individuals have agreed to serve if elected.

Preservation MD: Dan Campbell reported on the Six-to-Fix program which partners with nonprofits to preserve six endangered sites to be fixed per year. The mill in Port Deposit MD is on the list. After discussion, the chapter decided to postpone any financial support until the property gains nonprofit status since SPOOM is barred from assisting privately owned entities.

2017 SPOOM Conference: The plan for odd-numbered years is to expand chapter meeting and open them to the national board and membership. The Mid-Atlantic Chapter was asked to launch this initiative. Merritt Neale of Aberdeen Mills in Elizabethtown, PA agreed to host. Suggested sites include: Hopewell Village (Iron furnace with waterwheel powered bellows) Cornwall Iron Furnace (State park with some Iron furnace related things), Voith turbine test facility in York, PA, Glen Allen Mill in Cumberland County, and Steve Kindig's Mill. Ron Funk and Nancy Bell of Bowmansville Mill may host a Thursday night gathering. Other activities include workshops, speakers (on ecological impacts such as sedimentation and wetland reclamation, for example), and miller's training were suggested. The chapter would request holding the national meeting on Thursday and the chapter meeting on Saturday as usual. A Planning Committee including Bob McLaughlin, Megan Orient, Dan Campbell, Mason Maddox and Charles Yeske will work out dates and details to present at the August meeting.

2016 SPOOM Conference: Marti Goetz of Bear's Mill in Greenville OH attended the Friday bus tour and gave preliminary details for the meeting to be held October 20-23.

The lunch meeting adjourned at 1:30 pm.

Respectfully submitted,

Oct. 08, 2015. Two auctions of note: On October 17, 2015, in Rural Retreat, VA, Jack Weaver, a longtime SPOOM member, is selling his five decades old collection of several milling pieces and trade items such as blacksmith, cooper, tinsmith, barrel making, etc. Advertised on Auctionzip.com. Then on October 30 in Hellam, PA with Auctioneer Dave Conley of Rentzels Auction Service, three Lieberknecht stone burr mills from Hellam, PA will be up for public sale.

Nov. 10, 2015. Judy received a letter from: Jeremy Young; Project Manager, Disaster Planning for Historic Properties, PA Historical and Museum Commission, Harrisburg, PA. The request is for SPOOMs cooperation with AECOM Technical Services, who will be conducting a Historic Resource Survey in Monroe County as part of PHMC's Disaster Planning for Historic Properties Initiative, Monroe County. The goal is to produce a comprehensive inventory of hazard-prone historic properties for integration into the County's Hazard Mitigation Plan by identifying property vulnerability and appropriate mitigation strategies in the event of natural disasters. Individuals and organizations are asked to identify local landmarks and cherished historic properties and submit these to: Vanessa Zeoli, AWECOM team leader. Judy suggested that Steve Spring email the Monroe County SPOOM list to her and copy the Board. I (Ivan Lufriu) have had one encounter with this Disaster Planning Group and it was a total waste of time.

Nov. 10, 2015. Ryan Jenkins, Park Manager for Henry Horton State Park, Nashville, TN; is considering buying mill equipment for $20,000. My response was that this was far too much to pay for mill equipment when it is usually hard to dispose of, and is often given away. Ryan was referred to millwright John Lovett in Belvidere, TN. Charlie Yeske's response was that SPOOM should not place a value on equipment like this; but instead make known the options such as newsletters and web sites.

Nov. 12, 2015. An email (via Charlie) from William Koucky looking to contact someone who can provide instructions on running an Allis Chalmers roller mill, in Michigan. He was referred to John Lovett, TN.

Nov. 20, 2015. John Goff, Preservationist, responding to David Plunkett, English mill enthusiast who was seeking info about old French Buhr stones. Several people with knowledge about stones were copied on this email.

Nov. 23, 2015. Dan Campbell, in response to an inquiry about a Smock Mill in New England. Looking for a group of advisors to help their mill. They were given the names Ben Hassett (Virginia Millwright), Jim Kricker (New York state millwright), the New England Chapter of SPOOM, the Spocott Windmill near Salisbury, MD (see website), and Alisa Crawford who operates DeZwaan Windmill in Michigan.

Mill Happenings – 4/16/2016

Dec. 09, 2015. Bob McLaughlin was contacted by Carol Larro from Haddon Heights, NJ. She is looking for ideas on how to present a fulling mill site to the public. Some archaeological work has been done but all that is there now are four stakes that mark the corners of the building. It is on property owned by the city. She indicated that this mill processed the wool used by Betsy Ross to make her flag. She was referred to Harold Rapp, former SPOOM president, who lives in New Jersey.

Jan. 13, 2016. (an email forwarded by Judy Grove) Susquehanna State Park in Havre de Grace, Maryland is seeking a part-time miller for the Rock Run Gristmill for the spring, summer and fall of 2016. The mill features static displays of roller machinery, as well as an operational waterpowered stone, and shaker for grinding cornmeal. Experienced millers with good communication skills are preferred. Full time employment during the summer season is possible. The application deadline is January 26, 2016. An email address and phone number were given.

Jan. 16, 2016. Locke's Mill is for sale. Jon and Carol Joyce are wishing to put their mill – along the Shenandoah – into “younger hands.” Jon may be reached at: jonpjoyce@msn.com

Jan 22, 2016. John McGrain, who is not only Maryland's historian, but also an authority on Maryland mills, has recently published a book entitled JONES FALLS, POWERING INDUSTRY THAT PROPELLED BALTIMORE. Several copies have been provided to the SPOOM Bookstore, and are available at $20 each. In the written history and photographs, this book details the history of the many mills along the river known as Jones Falls which empties into Baltimore's harbor.

Jan. 26, 2016. Charles Hockensmith, President of the Kentucky Old Mill Association, forwarded an email to SPOOM Board members from Mike Jeffords, who wanted assistance in learning the value of several millstones he owned. There are several people who buy and sell millstones, but SPOOM is not prepared to give a value.

Feb. 14, 2016. Judy Grove has provided information on auction of mill equipment in Quarryville, PA. This was an on-line auction scheduled for February 16 thru March 5. The person to contact for more details is Ron Funk of Bowmansville Mill, at 717-445-0111.

Feb. 23, 2016. Don Ditka is looking for any information about the Crittenden Mill in south Fauquier County, VA. Any information about its history should be directed to jonpjoyce@msn.com A second inquiry is from Gabriel Pawloski who owns Miceys Mills in Freeport PA, and is interested in connecting with some other enthusiasts as he plans for the future of the mill. thegabrielj@gmail.com
